

Have your say on pedestrian improvements on the Central Coast Highway (The Entrance Road), Long Jetty

The NSW Government is investing in a proposal to improve safety for pedestrians.

Transport for NSW is seeking feedback on a proposal to install pedestrian refuges at two locations on the Central Coast Highway (The Entrance Road). The refuges will be located near bus stops and help improve safety by allowing people to cross one lane of traffic at a time.

The proposal involves installing a pedestrian refuge between Toowoon Bay Road and Gordon Road and another between Gordon Road and Archbold Road.

The proposed refuges would require some changes to parking on the highway, including a reduction of one parking space at each location. We have carefully considered the locations to minimise the impact to parking.

There would also be some restrictions to right turning movements into and out of some driveways due to the refuge installation.

We have included a diagram to help explain the proposal, and the parking and the driveway access changes.
