North Street design workshops cancelled

Dear resident,

As part of the community review group process for the Berry bypass, two urban design workshops were planned for Tuesday 15 November 2011. We have adjusted our plans and cancelled the workshops.

We are sorry for any inconvenience this may cause.

This change is in response to concerns some residents had that they felt unable to be involved in the urban design workshops until the alignment is known with more certainty.

A community proposed alignment of the bypass adjacent to North Street, put forward through the review group, is being worked on.

Further consultation with interested residents to put forward ideas on public spaces, recreation areas, landscaping, fences, footpaths, cycleways, views and materials etc. will take place in the future.

Community ideas will be incorporated in time to present the alignment and urban design possibilities for community comment.

The project team will be contacting those who have registered for the cancelled workshops to notify them of this change.

Yours sincerely
